2. citations and explanations

Claims 1, 2, 10-15, 23-27, 29, 35, 37, 43-51, 63 lack novelty under PCT Article 33(2) as being anticipated by Kenner et al (5.956.716).

Considering claims 1, 14, 27, 35, 45, 47, 51 and 55, Kenner discloses a method for providing an alternate service upon accessing an unauthorized service comprising the steps of receiving form the server device and storing in the memory a service database and an authorization database, accessing the service database responsive to the subscriber attempting to access a desired channel, determining whether the subscriber is authorized for the first service, and presenting an alternative service according to the service database responsive to the subscriber being authorized to receive the first service (col 8 lines 14-48, col 10 lines 11-39, col 24 lines 47 - col 25 line 12, col 27 line 64 - col 28 line 29, accessing a desired channel met by television and settop).

Considering claims 2, 15, 45 and 49 Kenner discloses a database listing of services stored locally in the client device and authorizing a user for services thus inherently meeting the limitation of a client device receiving service databased and authorization database from a server device (col 8 lines 14-45, col 16 lines 14-61, col 24 line 47 - col 25 line 12).

Regarding claims 29, 37, 46 and 50 see rejection of claims 2, 15, 45 and 49 above.

Considering claims 10 and 23, Kenner discloses the claimed enhanced version since the enhanced version comprises additional material not provided in other versions (col 24 line 47 - col 25 line 12, col 27 line 64 - col 28 line 29).

Considering claims 11 and 24, Kenner discloses manipulating the downloaded version which meets the "record and save the first service" limitation (col 8 lines 15-40).

Considering claims 12 and 25, Kenner discloses one of the claimed functions (col 8 lines 34 - 40).

Considering claims 13 and 28, Kenner discloses a plurality of audio streams for different configurations thus meeting the "superior audio service quality" limitation (col 27 line 64 - col 28 line 17). (Continued on Supplemental Sheet.)

V. 1. REASONED STATEMENTS:

The opinion as to Novelty was positive (YES) with respect to claims 3-9, 16-22, 28, 30-34, 36, 38-42, 52, 54. The opinion as to Novelty was negative (NO) with respect to claims 1, 2, 10-15, 23-27, 29-35, 37, 43-51, 53.

The opinion as to Inventive Step was positive (YES) with respect to claims 3-9, 16-22, 30-34, 38-42.

The opinion as to Inventive Step was negative (NO) with respect to claims 1, 2, 10-15, 23-29, 35-37, 43-54. The opinion as to Industrial Applicability was positive (YES) with respect to claims 1-54.

The opinion as to Industrial Applicability was negative (NO) with respect to claims NONE.

V. 2. REASONED STATEMENTS - CITATIONS AND EXPLANATIONS (Continued):

Considering claims 44 and 48, Kenner discloses the claimed determining configuration for a display device coupled to the client device (col 27 line 64 - col 28 line 17).

Claims 28, 36, 52, and 54 lack an inventive step under PCT Article 33(3) as being obvious over Kenner et al. Although Kenner fails to disclose the claimed limitations, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to modif y Kenner to include the claimed limitations.

Regarding claims 28, 36, 52 and 54 Kenner fails to disclose the claimed wherein the display device is configured in a HDTV format so that the client device is configured to present a television service in HDTV format if available and in a standard format if HDTV format is unavailable, however, providing and option for a program in HDTV or standard TV would have been well known to give a user an option of selecting the service desired based on the user's choice and/or system requirements.

Claims 3-9, 16-22, 30-34 and 38-42 meet the criteria set out in PCT Article 33(2)-(4), because the prior art does not teach or fairly suggest instructing a navigation module in the client device to receive the desired channel request, wherein the navigational module polls the service application manager client to determine the first service that corresponds to the desired channel.
